

An Uncommon Love

Terah Cox

May you have the love only two can know.

May you go where only two as one may go.

May the sun rise and set in your bonded hearts and the moon never find you too long apart.

May you cherish each other's dreams as your own and turn stumbling blocks into steppingstones.

May you brave life's mountains and miles together.

May there be no storm your love cannot weather.

May you be lovers and allies and friends.

May your soul's conversation never end.

May you capture on earth what's in heaven above.

May your hearts know the rapture of an uncommon love.

